

Involving Service Users on Management Committees

- Positive rewards, practical issues and potential areas of conflict

When? Thursday 2 July 10.30am – 3.30pm (incl. free lunch)

This short course will cover both the advantages and problems of user representation, and specific issues around dealing with conflicts of interest when involving current or past service-users on your board.

- Positive aspect of user representation on committees
- Some of the issues and limitations imposed by legal/regulatory limits on boards
- Good practice and regulatory issues – dealing with Conflicts of Interest
- Alternative ways to involve service users in management and strategic roles
- Practical issues – e.g. members who have periods of being absent, high turnover and balancing the need for fully informing, mentoring and inducting users about their committee responsibilities

Who is it for? Open to Directors / Managers / Head Coordinators / CEOs and management committee members/ trustees – pairs of Chairs/trustees from the same organisation wishing to attend together are also very welcome.

The course will be particularly targeted towards smaller BME, Health and Social Care and Children and Families groups, but all are welcome.
